Weekly Reflection

We have all failed to do the good we could have done and have done things that were wrong and even sinful. We may even repeat our behavior many times. Still, if we are open and willing to acknowledge our faults, God forgives us each time. How is it then, that we can hold grudges, deny forgiveness to others, or seek harsh punishments for those who have done wrong? Do we not pray to have our trespasses forgiven as we forgive others? How forgiving are you? Does it reflect how you have been forgiven for your offenses?

"I confess my faults to the Lord," and you took away the fault of my sin.
—Psalm 32:5

REFLECTION

We'd like our children to be perfect angels. As parents, we spend a lot of time teaching them proper manners, coaching them on moral behavior, and helping them understand right from wrong. And while we would like everything they do to be good and right, we know that sometimes our sons and daughters have to learn from their mistakes. We just hope and pray that the mistakes in their lives are minor and give them an education, as opposed to serious problems that lead to calamitous results. Sometimes, as parents, we have to take a stand (tough love, some call it) as a way of holding firm to certain principles of behavior.

The woman in the Gospel today is described as a sinner, although Luke never specifies the actual sin. We like to imagine the worst-adultery, harlotry. Maybe we do that because if she's guilty of really awful sins (after all, Jesus said that her many sins were forgiven), then she's not quite like us. We can stand on the side of righteousness-just like the Pharisee! (Whoops! Is that really the side we want to be on?)

Well, yes, it is. We do want to be on the side of righteousness. But we don't want to be on the side of self-righteousness. That is the delicate balance that each of us must strike. When our own children behave badly, we have to be prepared with correction. But we also have to be ready with forgiveness. Mercy is also one of the certain principles of Christian life. And just as God's justice is tempered with eternal mercy, so must our own desire for the right be guided by a merciful love. It's not always an easy balance to strike, but as we'll hear throughout this year as we read from Luke's Gospel, God's mercy is without limit or end.

REFLEXION

Durante mi experiencia en la vida del ministerio, he tenido la oportunidad de escuchar a muchas personas que viven angustiadas por sentimientos de culpa que cargan desde su infancia. Por lo tanto llega un momento en que tienen la necesidad de estar cerca de alguien que los comprenda y ayude a salir de su culpabilidad. El Evangelio de hoy nos narra la historia de la Magdalena que se reconoce pecadora. Este sentimiento de culpa le hace llegar hasta Jesús. Él la deja actuar en silencio, se siente consternado, y la perdona. No la cuestiona y ni la ataca haciéndola sentir peor.

Cuando alguien se acerca a nosotros, muchas veces en lugar de ayudar y escuchar, hacemos que la persona se sienta aún más culpable y pequeña. Sin embargo, el ejemplo de la Magdalena nos enseña varios puntos que no hay que perder de vista. Primeramente, su sinceridad ante sí misma y ante los demás. Segundo, ella emplea signos humanos para acercarse a Jesús: se postra ante él. Ella tenía un deseo real de quedar limpia y de recuperar la dignidad que solamente Dios nos devuelve al ser perdonados. Analicemos pues, ¿cuándo ha sido la última vez que nos hemos acercado al sacramento de la reconciliación? ¿Hemos sentido la necesidad de perdón y de perdonar a alguien? De nosotros depende dar el primer paso para acercarnos al Señor. Estemos seguros que Dios comprende todas nuestras luchas diarias en el vivir cotidiano. ¡Seamos sinceros: esto nos hace mejores personas!
